

PRINCETON WOMEN'S NETWORK

Guide to How to Start a PWN

- Coordinate with your local regional alumni association and Alumni Association staff to invite alumnae to a social event to discuss starting a PWN.
- Identify alumnae who may provide energy, enthusiasm and leadership.
- Introduce PWN concept and possible activities. Solicit ideas.
- Suggest two initial activities and solicit volunteers for small leadership roles.
- Set date for a leadership meeting and initially agree on leadership roles and responsibilities.
- Hold two activities soon after to build on momentum of initial meeting.
- Participate in conference calls with PWN leadership from other regions.
- Operate under the umbrella of the regional association, which can help with advice, financial support, logistics, communications and more.
- Ideas for initial and ongoing events requiring minimal management and expense:
 - Annual social event (wine and cheese party or tea) in a home to establish and solidify connections.
 - “Food for Thought” potluck for a small group in a home with guest speaker (preferably an alumna) to provide intellectually stimulating program in a community building environment.
 - Annual service group event (e.g., evening at soup kitchen or shelter, afternoon at animal rescue facility).

Created by the

Ad Hoc Committee on Alumnae Initiatives

Jolanne Luchak Stanton '77 P05, Chair

Isabel McGinty *82 P12, Vice Chair