JANUARY 15-21, 2022

Travel with Professor of Anthropology Agustín Fuentes

ABOARD NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC ISLANDER

alumni.princeton.edu/journeys

Galápagos will spoil you. The legendary animals described by Charles Darwin show no fear, making it possible to make intimate portraits of giant tortoises, marine iguanas, and a host of seabirds, including the comical blue-footed boobies. I guarantee you will shoot more images than ever before, and make your best pictures ever!

DEAR PRINCETONIAN,

Galápagos is a dream destination for many travelers, but not everyone has the luxury of time to commit to an extended voyage. That is why we are delighted to introduce this new shorter itinerary. Now those who have yearned to experience the wonders and wildlife of this magical place don't have to miss out—you can see, do, and discover it all in one exhilarating adventure-packed expedition and do it in just one week.

Begin the journey in Guayaquil, Ecuador's largest city, then fly some 600 miles off the coast to the Galápagos Islands. From here, climb aboard the 24-berth National Geographic Islander, a true expedition ship. Animal life varies from island to island, but likely encounters include sea lions, fur seals, marine iguanas, sea turtles, and the giant tortoise, as well as a wealth of bird life such as penguins, frigatebirds, blue-footed boobies, Galápagos hawks, Darwin's finches, Nazca boobies, storm petrels and mockingbirds. Our intimate Princeton group will have the opportunity to explore many islands in the archipelago, with daily stops for hiking, snorkeling, kayaking, or just sitting on the beach and watching the teeming wildlife. At Santa Cruz Island, visit the Charles Darwin Research Station and learn about the center's conservation and sustainability projects. On Isla Bartolomé hike past lava tubes and spatter cones and learn about the volcanic origin of this archipelago.

If the Galápagos Islands have been on your "must see" list, there is no better time than now to make it happen. With only a few cabins available, time is of the essence. Contact the Princeton Journeys team at (609) 258-8686 or journeys@princeton.edu to reserve your space today.

With kind regards,

Bridget St. Clair
Executive Manager, Princeton Journeys

Ranging from chasing monkeys in jungles and cities, to exploring the lives of our evolutionary ancestors, to examining what people actually do across the globe, Professor Fuentes is interested in both the big questions and the small details of what makes humans and our closest relatives tick. His current projects include exploring cooperation, creativity, and belief in human evolution, multispecies anthropologies, evolutionary theory and processes, and engaging race and racism. Fuentes is an active public scientist, a well-known blogger, lecturer, tweeter and a writer and explorer for National Geographic. # ENCOUNTER WILD ANIMALS SIMPLY LIVING THEIR LIVES IN FRONT OF YOU

Sea lion is unfazed by young photographer.

On an African safari, your guides have to work hard to ensure you'll spot one of the often-elusive 'big five' species. In Galápagos, chances are, your naturalists will have to route you around the charismatic endemic species that cross your path, graze beside you, or take a nap pretty much anywhere they want. There's always fascinating behavior to observe and learn about—courtship, nesting, raising young, feeding, defending territory, and more. And because Galápagos' animals don't fear humans, you'll have a rare experience of closeness—literally and figuratively. You could visit Galápagos 50 times and see something new each time.

DISCOVER GALÁPAGOS WITH THE FREEDOM TO ENJOY IT YOUR WAY

Each day you'll enjoy a fresh destination plus all kinds of choices of what to do. Hike, paddleboard, kayak, snorkel, or hang out with your photo instructor. But should you decide to sleep in, have a slow breakfast, or get a massage, it's your vacation. The schedule is flexible and the itinerary more a function of what's to see than where we need to be. You're free to explore the ship, and always welcome on the Bridge to meet the captain and officers.

LIFE ABOARD YOUR EXPEDITION SHIP

Begin and end each active day in the comfortable and welcoming atmosphere of the National Geographic Islander, a vintage mahogany-and-brass ode to the elegant maritime tradition. Accommodating just 48 guests, it's as close to a private yacht expedition as you can get, and a friendly, convivial community quickly forms on board. The attentiveness of the staff, cabin service three times daily, the relaxed informality, combined with the pleasures of convening in the lounge and entering the dining room for each day's meals, creates a round of satisfying rituals that foster a real sense of being "at home."

YOUR EXPEDITION TEAM IS ACE AT DOING WHATEVER IT TAKES

Your expedition team has the knowledge and the passion for Galápagos that will kindle yours. They will do whatever it takes, from maintaining a lookout so you don't miss a passing whale, offering an extra snorkel when sea turtles are congregating nearby, or pausing on a walk to witness the birth of a sea lion pup. They'll help you to see, do, and absorb all the extraordinary experiences.

You'll have the benefit of a certified photo instructor at your side and at your service. He or she can help you with anything from camera settings to the basics of composition. Now, every guest—from iPhone camera users to advanced hobbyists—can stand side-by-side with skilled photographers, pick up tips in the field, and take great photos.
